The MSc Palliative Care at King’s College London supports the career development of doctors, nurses and allied health and social care professionals who are advancing palliative and end of care on a global scale. We offer an internationally renowned multi-professional course that provides the skills necessary for you to appraise research and evidence in palliative care and to improve clinical practice and services.

What we offer:

- Unrivalled teaching by world-leading experts at one of the best universities in the world.
- A diverse, dynamic and highly relevant curriculum that includes research methods, clinical issues, service development, psychosocial, cultural and ethical issues.
- Flexible study: part time and full time options. You can enter at PG Certificate or Diploma level and progress to the MSc.
- Opportunities to collaborate and publish with staff from the Cicely Saunders Institute, the only purpose-built institute for palliative care. More than 40% of our students successfully publish their research studies in high impact peer reviewed journals.
- Competitive scholarships for UK based students.

Applications for January 2016 close on 30th October 2015
www.kcl.ac.uk/palliative mscpallcare@kcl.ac.uk