Research proposal

Please note that applicants who are interested in the scholarship can submit the same proposal for both the scholarship AND the standard application; there is no expectation that the proposal will be re-written for the scholarship application.

It is essential that you should discuss your topic with your potential supervisor when you are drafting your research proposal for this application.

The research proposal must include enough information to enable the selection panel to assess your suitability for this award. You should address the following:

1. The theoretical background to the proposed research and its relationship to previous work in the relevant field;
2. The significance of the proposed research;
3. Explicit reference to the transnational outlook of the proposed research;
4. The likely methodological approach and why it is appropriate to the aims of the project;
5. How your proposed research complements your previous experience and anticipates possible future research work;
6. Why you feel your project fits with your proposed supervisor's research and the strengths of The Dickson Poon School of Law.

Research proposals must NOT exceed 2 sides of A4 (Times New Roman Font size 11) in total. Longer proposals or those that contain extraneous material will not be considered.
