Where to find us
There are five main libraries at King’s College London covering a range of specialities, as well as Archives and Special Collections.

The Maughan Library
- American Studies
- Australian Studies
- Business Studies
- Classics
- Computer Science
- Cultural & Creative Industries
- Digital Culture & Technology
- Engineering
- English
- European Studies
- Film Studies
- French
- Geography
- German
- Gerontology

Foyle Special Collections Library
- Foreign and Commonwealth Office Historical Collection
- History of medicine
- Travel and exploration

New Hunt’s House Library; Wills Library
- Biomedical Sciences – including:
  - Anatomy
  - Biochemistry
  - Biophysics
  - Cell biology
  - Genetics
  - Neuroscience
  - Pharmacology
  - Physiology
- Dentistry
- Medicine
- Physiotherapy

St Thomas’ House Library
- Basic medical sciences
- Clinical medicine and health services research
- Dermatology
- Paediatrics

Franklin-Wilkins Library
- Biochemistry
- Chemistry
- Education
- Forensic Science
- Nutrition & Dietetics
- Nursing & Midwifery
- Pharmacy

Weston Education Centre Library
- Basic medical sciences
- Clinical medicine
- Dentistry and health services research collections;
- Diabetes
- Gastroenterology
- Gynaecology
- Liver disease
- Obstetrics
- Health care policy
- Health journals archive
- History of medicine
- Medical audit
- Mental health
- Paediatrics
- Palliative care
- Public health

Archives, 3rd Floor, Strand building
- English
- College Institutional history
- History of Science
- History of Medicine
- Military History

For a map of directions to each of the libraries, visit the Libraries & Collections location webpage www.kcl.ac.uk/library/visiting/index.aspx