What is the Translation Academy?

The Translation Academy has been formed by the Translational Research Office, to provide researchers at King's College training in how to translate their research.

Together with the Industry Partnerships team and IP & Licensing team, we form part of Innovation@King's. Through the Industry Partnerships team, we have partnered with biopharmaceutical company UCB, to deliver a series of workshops to raise awareness and understanding of the translational development journey from an industry perspective.

Info and registration

Attendance to this workshop is encouraged for all of King's academics and staff.
