The MSc Nursing course is a part-time course designed for qualified nurses wishing to obtain a master's award having previously completed a postgraduate diploma (PGDip) with registration as an Adult, Children's or Mental Health Nurse.

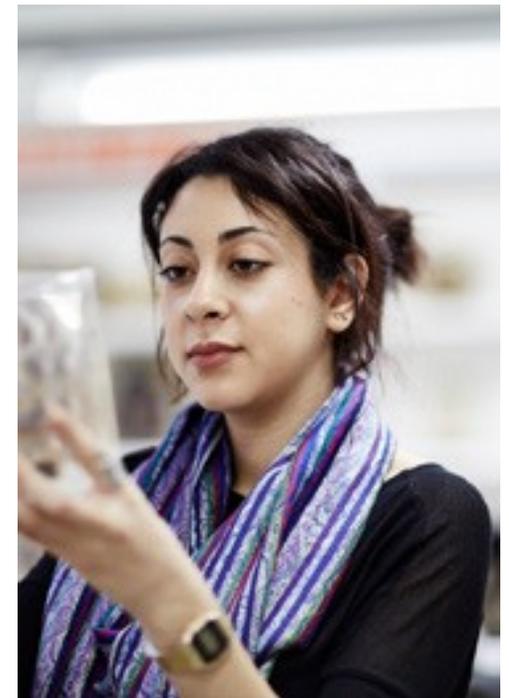

Key benefits

- You will be studying at the No.2 nursing faculty in the UK and 5th in the world (2018 QS World University Rankings by subject).
- Internationally renowned clinicians and academics providing an unparalleled learning experience in a multi-faculty environment.
- Located in the heart of London, across four of King's Thames-side campuses (Waterloo, Strand, St Thomas' and Guy's) and the Denmark Hill Campus in South London.
- Access to extracurricular seminars and lectures given by leaders in healthcare from around the world.

Course details

The MSc Nursing course is a study pathway that allows you to apply the learning and skills you acquired in the taught components of your PGDip programme to conduct a research project and write a dissertation of 12,000 words. Three projects are available: an analysis of an area of healthcare provision, an empirical study, or a systematic review.

The pathway is made up of one 60-credit module, which you will complete in one year. A designated supervisor will support your project work throughout the course.

Teaching

Year	Lectures, seminars and feedback	Self-study
One	Approximately 150 hours (25% of total hours). This is mainly project supervision with some lectures, seminars and workshops.	Approximately 450 hours (75% of total hours) of independent study such as preparing for scheduled sessions, follow-up work, wider reading, and completion of your dissertation. You are expected to undertake 5-10 hours of self-study per week. This may vary depending on the stage of your project and individual deadlines agreed between yourself and your supervisor.

Contact time is based on 24 academic weeks, whereas self-study time is based on 31 academic weeks. Typically, one credit equates to 10 hours of work.

Assessment

You will be assessed in the form of a dissertation.

Regulating body

King's College London is regulated by the Office for Students.

Course structure
