One overseas scholarship is awarded each year to a student from overseas who has been accepted to study in the Department of Theology and Religious Studies or the Department of Education and Professional Studies (Theology and Education) of King's College London. There are no geographical limitations, but the Trustees aim to award the scholarship to a student who:

- is able to benefit from the educational opportunity offered by King's College London.
- is unable to obtain an education at this level in their own country.
- is expected make a significant contribution to the religious life of their country through the medium of one of the Christian denominations.

In this reference, you are asked to comment particularly on the candidate's academic abilities and potential, but you are welcome to include any additional comments if you feel they would be helpful. If the candidate has not yet begun their studies at King's, you may wish to refer to references received as part of their application. Please use additional sheets of paper if necessary.
